Koblenz – 21 July 2009: The 12th IAAF World Championships in Athletics will take place in Berlin from 15 to 23 August 2009. The organizers have chosen the ALBIS on WINDOWS doctor information software to provide technical software support at all venues during the championships.

The medical care concept is now in place in advance of the first events at Olympic Stadium in Berlin. Over 3,000 accredited participants will be able to rely on a perfect medical care infrastructure at more than 25 venues. Documentation of all treatment and examinations administered will be realized at all locations and made available online with the ALBIS on WINDOWS doctor information software.

Experience gained during the preparatory phase clearly shows that ALBIS on WINDOWS offers a broad spectrum of flexible functions and networking options, thus ensuring sufficient capacities and resources for this unusual field of application. DOS GmbH, the ALBIS sales and service partner in Berlin, will provide on-site technical software support during the competition. DOS GmbH is one of the leading suppliers of clinical computers in Berlin.

The proven ALBIS on WINDOWS medical information software is currently used by over 12,500 practising physicians in all fields of medicine. The software is also used effectively in outpatient clinics and medical treatment centres to manage process-oriented procedures and multi-sector communication. ALBIS Ärzteservice Product GmbH & Co KG is a subsidiary of CompuGROUP Holding AG and has offered its customers stable clinical software and dependable on-site service throughout the region for over two decades.

A primary goal of CompuGROUP Holding AG – one of the world’s leading e-health companies – is to increase the efficiency of the healthcare system by 15% with the aid of intelligent software. “The decision to use ALBIS on WINDOWS in support of the 12th World Championships in Athletics is further evidence of the versatility and efficiency of the ALBIS on WINDOWS doctor information software”, notes Volker Scheuble, Managing Director of ALBIS Ärzteservice Product GmbH & Co KG.
